The purpose of this guide is to support trainers in enabling learners to effectively assimilate and apply the accompanying material to a level acceptable to the industry. This guide is intended for the trainer with experience and skill in conducting group learning and who is a current content expert in the subject matter. It is recommended that the trainer become familiar with the content and layout of the companion resources. An understanding of the information as well as the process of implementing the content is fundamental to using this guide.

How to Use this Guide

Lessons are laid out in such a way that they may be changed and adapted to suit the participant group. Activities are intended to be suggestions rather than prescriptions. The Instructional Strategies section gives suggested time frames for each activity. However, these time frames are flexible depending on the skill level, experiences, size, and composition of the group.

As information about human behavior changes regularly, the trainer should be prepared to acquire and include additional Canadian and provincial support materials, reports, resources and information when delivering this content. A commitment to lifelong learning and change is important because of the fluid nature of information and knowledge.

Facilitation Principles

A number of principles should be considered throughout the delivery of this material.

Continued Planning and Preparation

Planning and preparation are an essential part of instruction. The time required to plan and prepare should not be underestimated, particularly the time it takes for the material to be delivered. A trainer may choose to research and prepare other materials as a supplement to the course design and content.
Equal Importance of Content and Process

Content and process are equally important. The trainer should attend to group and team dynamics, issues arising, and individual needs that may require attention. The learning activities are based on a suggested agenda, so a trainer may adapt it according to participants’ needs. Participants need to feel they have been heard when they express issues of concern to them. Concurrently, the group and trainer need to modify their expectations or requirements as appropriate to the overall level of understanding and interaction of the group.

Balance within the Process

Attention to the process also means attention to the participants who dominate the group, and others who remain silent. The trainer should strive for balance in the level of participation among learners, encouraging quieter members to speak and politely telling more dominant members to give everyone a chance to speak. One technique that helps to achieve this balance is to ask various people to report back from small-group and team activities.

Encourage Participation

Experiential learning is one of the foundations of adult education. It has been proven to be a more effective method of mastering content than hearing a lecture, seeing a demonstration, or participating in a discussion. It is suggested that there be a balance of small-group and team activities, triads, pairs, and whole group work. Trainers should note that there will be times when a short lecture is necessary. Simulations through lab work and access to a reality environment are built into the curriculum.

Acknowledge Prior Learning

Participants come to the course with different knowledge, skills and needs. This should be acknowledged at the outset. The learning activities should facilitate ways for group members to learn from each other, as well as to learn from the trainer and the content. A good process rule is to move participants around so they work in small groups with different people. Mixing participants is also a good strategy for breaking up groups that may be stuck (too vocal or quiet).

Flexible Times

Flexibility is important. The trainer must be flexible in adapting time frames and content to the needs of the group. An activity that is given a suggested time frame of 30 minutes may take over an hour if the group finds the subject thought-provoking enough to discuss in more depth. The trainer must make some choices about time and adjust the agenda as necessary. At times the trainer should consult with the group in deciding how to proceed.

Make Time for Issues

There will be occasions when the group identifies a question or content area that seems important enough to address, explore or research in more detail. When this occurs, the trainer must try to address this need. One strategy is to gain cooperation from the group, and agreement that this information is a priority. Another strategy is to identify the issue as significant and agree to return to it at a later time.

Trainer Responsibility

The trainer must, however, maintain a certain degree of control and guidance over the group so that the learning outcomes are achieved. This means balancing the individual needs of group members with the overall structure and content of the curriculum and the overall needs of the group.

Behave Ethically When Tutoring

Tutor Ethics

“Ethics” is a standard of morals.
- When we are ethical, we study and analyze right from wrong and do the right thing.
- There are difficult situations that arise and every tutor needs to have thought about them so that they can do what is right.

Planning Tutor Sessions

Session Planning Model

Benefits and Process of Session/Lesson Planning
(model from Hunter 1984)

1. Learning Objective
   - What the learner will be able to do upon mastery of this activity.

2. Anticipatory Set
   - Serves to put the tutee into a receptive frame of mind.
   - Include what the learner already knows; review of other work that may relate to this new activity.
   - How will this activity help him/her reach goals?

Session Planning Model (cont’d)

3. Input
   - Tutor presents new information, using specific materials related to objective and focusing on the necessary basic skills.

4. Modeling
   - Tutor shows the skill needed so that the tutee can then do it themselves.
   - The tutee asks question and tries the skill.

5. Check for Understanding
   - Tutor checks that each step has been understood.

Plan Tutor Sessions

<tr>
<td>Homework Assignment</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Session Planning Model (cont’d)

6. Guided Practice
   - Tutor provides opportunity to practice what has been presented.
   - Effectiveness of the learning activity is evaluated and adjusted.

7. Closure
   - Tutor brings lesson to an appropriate conclusion with review and ensuring that the tutee has the main ideas.

8. Independent Practise
   - Tutor provides an activity to reinforce proficiency related to the stated objective.
Exercising Your Lesson Plan

“How do I start the Lesson?”

- Even experienced tutors can get lost in exercises and activities and not have a clear picture of where these will lead.
- It can be difficult to take what a student wants to be able to do (goal) and decide upon a session objective and then a course of action.

20 minutes Tutoring Cycle

MacDonald’s elements and the 12 step tutoring cycle

How will you use your session plan? Slides 19-22 Workbook – Utilize the Tutoring Cycle (p. 18-20)

Tutoring Cycle Checklist

1. Greet and settle the tutor
2. Identify task
3. Break task into parts
4. Identify thought processes
5. Set an agenda
6. Address the task
7. Tutor summary of content
8. Tutor summary of underlying process
9. Confirmation
10. What next?
11. Arrange and plan next session
12. Dose and goodbye

Tutor Cycle Questions

- What are the crucial points in this cycle?
- How do we work alongside the tutee?
- What are we looking for?
- What questions need to be asked?
- How do we build on the learning that occurs in a tutoring session?
- How do we build tutee confidence?
Document the Session

May be called journalling, field notes, diary, logbooks, etc.

Document what happened so that when you meet with the tutee next, you refer to your notes and pick up from where you left off.

Use a notebook to record your plan (date, times, subject, goals, actions, etc.)

Do not write in personal information.

Critical Questioning

Let’s start with a few questions.

- What is Critical Thinking?
- Why do Tutors need to be Critical Thinkers?
- How do Tutors use Critical Questioning?

A deep learning approach to tutoring includes:
- writing study questions;
- coaching the tutee to figure out the answers;
- breaking down complex processes step-by-step;
- Tutee answering questions to show memory.

Avoid thinking blockages by yourself and your tutee through:
- using facts not assumptions;
- accessing multiple points of view;
- interpreting information accurately to prevent conflicts;
- discussing issues with others;
- asking (and answering) questions!

Bloom’s Taxonomy

20 minutes

Exercise – Creating questions using Bloom’s Taxonomy

Create Questions

1. Develop a question (or activity) for the tutee that would show whether the material is understood.
2. Working in pairs, explain the questions at each level for this subject area that you tutor.
3. Describe how your questions allow you to assess how much your tutee knows.

Applying the Levels of Bloom

1. Working in pairs and using the worksheet, create questions at each level of Bloom’s taxonomy for a subject area that you tutor.
2. Be prepared to explain how your questions would allow you to assess how much your tutee knew and what level they were on.

This concludes the first part of the KPU Level One Tutor Training program. Tutors continue training with your Instructional Associate, Learning Strategists, and faculty mentors.

Level One integration exercises using online resources (6 hours)

Congratulations on finishing your first six hour Tutor Training! You now have a good foundation in tutoring concepts and situations that you may encounter as a new Tutor. You began with your application and interview to become a Tutor at Kwantlen’s Learning Centres, completed your six hour training session, including your workbook exercises, explanations, and discussions. The process that you will now follow to get ready for live tutoring will help you prepare to help others. You will continue your training using Moodle for exercises and documents as well as working with your Instructional Associate, other members of the Learning Centre Team, and your Faculty mentor.

Accessing Moodle

Moodle is an online web based application that allows for interaction among students and instructors. We use it for tutor training as well as for communicating with each other. Because we consider this an important part of your job in the Learning Centre, you will need to log in each week to keep up on Moodle postings and discussion groups.

You will see the following screen:

Log in, and click on Tutor Training. Choose the Tutor Integration tab and click into Level One.

Now we are at the stage of ensuring that you can integrate your new knowledge, skills, and attitudes into an effective tutoring package. Here is a checklist that you can refer to for the major steps along the way as you complete the steps to obtain your Level One certification.
