The purpose of this guide is to support trainers in enabling learners to effectively assimilate and apply the accompanying material to a level acceptable to the industry. This guide is intended for the trainer with experience and skill in conducting group learning and who is a current content expert in the subject matter. It is recommended that the trainer become familiar with the content and layout of the companion resources. An understanding of the information as well as the process of implementing the content is fundamental to using this guide.

How to Use this Guide

Lessons are laid out in such a way that they may be changed and adapted to suit the participant group. Activities are intended to be suggestions rather than prescriptions. The Instructional Strategies section gives suggested time frames for each activity. However, these time frames are flexible depending on the skill level, experiences, size, and composition of the group.

As information about human behavior changes regularly, the trainer should be prepared to acquire and include additional Canadian and provincial support materials, reports, resources and information when delivering this content. A commitment to lifelong learning and change is important because of the fluid nature of information and knowledge.

Facilitation Principles

A number of principles should be considered throughout the delivery of this material.

Continued Planning and Preparation

Planning and preparation are an essential part of instruction. The time required to plan and prepare should not be underestimated, particularly the time it takes for the material to be delivered. A trainer may choose to research and prepare other materials as a supplement to the course design and content.
Equal Importance of Content and Process

Content and process are equally important. The trainer should attend to group and team dynamics, issues arising, and individual needs that may require attention. The learning activities are based on a suggested agenda, so a trainer may adapt it according to participants’ needs. Participants need to feel they have been heard when they express issues of concern to them. Concurrently, the group and trainer need to modify their expectations or requirements as appropriate to the overall level of understanding and interaction of the group.

Balance within the Process

Attention to the process also means attention to the participants who dominate the group, and others who remain silent. The trainer should strive for balance in the level of participation among learners, encouraging quieter members to speak and politely telling more dominant members to give everyone a chance to speak. One technique that helps to achieve this balance is to ask various people to report back from small-group and team activities.

Encourage Participation

Experiential learning is one of the foundations of adult education. It has been proven to be a more effective method of mastering content than hearing a lecture, seeing a demonstration, or participating in a discussion. It is suggested that there be a balance of small-group and team activities, triads, pairs, and whole group work. Trainers should note that there will be times when a short lecture is necessary. Simulations through lab work and access to a reality environment are built into the curriculum.

Acknowledge Prior Learning

Participants come to the course with different knowledge, skills and needs. This should be acknowledged at the outset. The learning activities should facilitate ways for group members to learn from each other, as well as to learn from the trainer and the content. A good process rule is to move participants around so they work in small groups with different people. Mixing participants is also a good strategy for breaking up groups that may be stuck (too vocal or quiet).

Flexible Times

Flexibility is important. The trainer must be flexible in adapting time frames and content to the needs of the group. An activity that is given a suggested time frame of 30 minutes may take over an hour if the group finds the subject thought-provoking enough to discuss in more depth. The trainer must make some choices about time and adjust the agenda as necessary. At times the trainer should consult with the group in deciding how to proceed.

Make Time for Issues

There will be occasions when the group identifies a question or content area that seems important enough to address, explore or research in more detail. When this occurs, the trainer must try to address this need. One strategy is to gain cooperation from the group, and agreement that this information is a priority. Another strategy is to identify the issue as significant and agree to return to it at a later time.

Trainer Responsibility

The trainer must, however, maintain a certain degree of control and guidance over the group so that the learning outcomes are achieved. This means balancing the individual needs of group members with the overall structure and content of the curriculum and the overall needs of the group.

Practise Intercultural Communication

You and your Culture

How do you identify yourself culturally or racially?
What do you enjoy or appreciate most about your culture?
What assumptions do people make about your culture?

What is Culture?

✔ Dynamic
✔ Shared
✔ Continuous and Cumulative
✔ Symbolic, Creative, Meaningful
✔ Guides group members
≠ Not Static
≠ Not bought or sold
≠ Not biological

Cross Cultural Competence Goals
- Respect and value cultural differences.
- Expand cultural knowledge.
- Adapt to changes in society.
- Identify how privilege makes relationships uneven.
- Devise, revise, and implement action plans that include others in ways that they want to be included.

Culture Shock
Most students feel some shock moving into University and more when the culture is most different.
Some of the signs of culture shock include:
- Homesickness
- Boredom
- Withdrawal
- Negative feelings and stereotyping of others
- Inability to concentrate
- Excessive sleep or insomnia
- Compulsive eating or drinking or lack of appetite
- Crying uncontrollably
- Outbursts of anger, irritability
- Physical ailments,

Helping Tutees

Cultural Safety

A manner that affirms, respects, and fosters the cultural expression of each person. Cultural safety addresses power relationships between the Learning Centre and the people who use the service. How will you ensure this safety for your tutees?

In the different stages of adapting to a new culture, you have a role to play.

- Euphoria (Tutors can share enthusiasm with their tutees)
- Fear, Anxiety, Rejection (Tutors listen and refer to other resources and support systems as needed)
- Acceptance and Adjustment (Tutors encourage a positive outlook as tutees adjust)
- Resolution (Tutors and tutees are normal and focused on coursework)

Manage Personal Stress

- Stress is the body’s response to any demand.
- No stress and we are dead.
- Good stress increases what we can do.
- Too much stress and we can’t function.
- What causes you stress?

Types of Stress

- Understress – lack of engagement.
- Eustress – balanced, positive stress.
- Overstress – continual stress.
- Distress – reaction to continual stress.
- Cumulative stress – many small things over time.
- Acute stress – overwhelmed at the time.
- Delayed Stress – reaction to past stress.
- Chronic Stress – overstress over time.

Symptoms of Stress

These may be:
- Physical
- Emotional
- Spiritual
- Mental
- Relational
Stress Resistance and Recovery

Building Stress Resistance

- Take Charge!
- Stress Recovery – find what works for you.
- Eustress Activity – what do you do that leaves you energized? Do more of that!
- Control Your Personal Stress by using rational thoughts.

Evaluate Tutee’s Needs

Assessing Levels of Knowledge and Skills through a variety of basic techniques (Level II Workbook, p. 10).

Create Learning Tasks – Next steps to move the tutee forward in their learning that are based on the highest level that they currently understand.

20 minutes | Evaluate Tutees’ Needs Techniques Create learning tasks | Slides 21 – 22 Workbook – (p. 11-12)

Learning Task Activity

Think about your subject area and the type assessment you might use to identify the level that the tutee is at.

Create a session plan for a typical situation that you have encountered which will identify two learning tasks that you would assign the tutee to help them progress and your assessment. (workbook p.11)
Questioning – Level Two – Socratic Method

30 minutes

Inquiry method of learning and tutoring
Ask your partner different types of questions about a concept in a shared subject (Session Planning).

Socratic Questioning

Clarity
Could you elaborate further?
Could you give me an example?

Accuracy
How can we determine if that is true?
How can we verify your statements?

Precision
Could you be more specific?
Could you provide more details?

Relevance
How does that relate to the issue?
How does that align with the question?

Depth
What are some of the complexities of this question?
What factors need to be considered?

Breadth
Do we need to consider another point of view?
Do we need to look at this from a different perspective?
Socratic Questioning

Logic
- Does what you say follow from the evidence?
- Does all this make sense?

Significance:
- Is this the central idea?
- Is this the most important issue to consider?

(examples from Paul, 2007)

Socratic Questions Summary

Tool: the use of open-ended questions

Goal: to bring a person to realize an answer for themselves

Avoids: giving the answer to the tutee without giving any tools for solving the next questions

Toolbox: if the student doesn’t seem to be finding the answer, ask a different question or ask your question in a different way
Questions?

Respectful interactions are even more important in groups.

Key skills for the tutor are:

- Showing that each person is heard.
- Ensuring that no group member is left out of the conversation.
- Listening for common ground and identifying it to the group during the session.

Manage Time and Avoid Procrastination

Manage Time

Scheduling is necessary to be “On Task”. This ensures the ability to
- Remember,
- Understand,
- Apply,
- Analyze,
- Evaluate and be Creative.

Time and Schedules

- Each course has 3-4 hours in class and ~7 hours self-study per course per week.
- ~42-56 hours class time and a further 140 hours total study time in a 14 week semester.
- For 5 courses this would mean maybe 15-20 hours in class and 45 hours self-study per week!
- Plus meals, laundry, recreation, and sleep!
- This is a full time job!
- To Have Time You Must Schedule Time.

Controlling Focus

Attention through Intention

Both are necessary to avoid the planning fallacy:
- people underestimate how long they will need to complete a task.

Develop the Habit of Focus

Procrastination Flowchart

I'll find a picture for it later.

Study Smart

Start right from the beginning:
- Attend classes
- Read the Syllabus
- Schedule Study Time – short and often
- Do the hard stuff first
- Learn Key Concepts
- Look for Meaning
- Problem Solve
- Keep on Top of your Workload
- Review regularly

End of Level Two Classroom Tutor Training

Thank You for Participating and Happy Tutoring!
Continuing your Tutor Training

This concludes the first part of the Kwantlen Level Two Tutor Training program. You will continue your training under the guidance of your Instructional Associate, Learning Strategists, and faculty mentors. Good Luck in your continuing Tutoring activities.

Level Two integration exercises using online resources (6 hours)

Congratulations on finishing your Level Two Tutor Training! You now have more information to build on your Level One foundation in tutoring concepts, experience, and situations that you may encounter as a Tutor. You began with your application and interview to become a Tutor at Kwantlen’s Learning Centres, completed your six hour training session, including your workbook exercises, explanations, and discussions. The process that you will now follow to continue your tutoring will help you continue to help others. You will continue your training using Moodle for exercises and documents as well as working with your Instructional Associate, other members of the Learning Centre Team, and your Faculty mentor.

Accessing Moodle

Moodle is an online web based application that allows for interaction among students and instructors. We use it for tutor training as well as for communicating with each other. Because we consider this an important part of your job in the Learning Centre, you will need to log in each week to keep up on Moodle postings and discussion groups.

You will see the following screen:

log in, and click on Tutor Training.

Choose the Tutor Integration tab and click into Level Two.
